

Wicks-Conway Resolution Proposes Sweeping Probe Of Albany City and County

Proposal Calls for $75,000 Appropriation for Expenses of Legislative Committee So Empowered

Full Authority

Eight-Member Committee Is Given Full Power Under Terms of Proposal

Albany, March 7 (Special).—A sweeping investigation of Albany city and county was requested here last night by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Republicans of Kingston, in a resolution introduced in the two houses of the legislature. The resolution, which was referred to the finance committee of Senate and Assembly, calls for a $75,000 appropriation for expenses of the legislative committee conducting the investigation.

The committee would consist of three members of the Senate appointed by the temporary president of that house, and five members of the Assembly, appointed by the Speaker, and would have "full power and authority" to inquire into and examine the administration and conduct of the government of Albany city and county. A report to the legislature must be made, the resolution states, on or before February 1, 1940.

Steingut Calls It Strange
When the resolution was handed to the desk in the assembly by Assemblyman Conway, Democratic Minority Leader Irwin Steingut of Brooklyn, rose and declared that "it seems strange to me that a member from another county sees fit to sponsor legislation investigating Albany county when there is a member of the Republican party from Albany county in this house."

Speaker Oswald D. Heck, Republican, of Schenectady, answered: "The chair recollects when a certain member of the legislature legislated for the county of Nassau, in 1935."

He was referring to Democratic-sponsored measures offered by Assemblyman Daniel V. McNamara of New York, affecting the Nassau county charter.

In the Senate, Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic minority leader from New York city, inquired if the city of Newburgh was included in the resolution, when it was offered by Senator Wicks, and when informed that Newburgh was not contained in its provisions asked "why not?"

"Because no charges have been brought against Newburgh," answered Senator Wicks.

Manley Interrupts
Senator Joe R. Hanley, of Wyoming county, Republican majority leader, interrupted at this point to inform Senator Dunnigan that if a resolution were offered by him for investigation of Newburgh "we will give it the same courteous treatment."

"It's a rotten city," declared Senator Dunnigan, referring to Newburgh, "and you know, it is a Republican city."

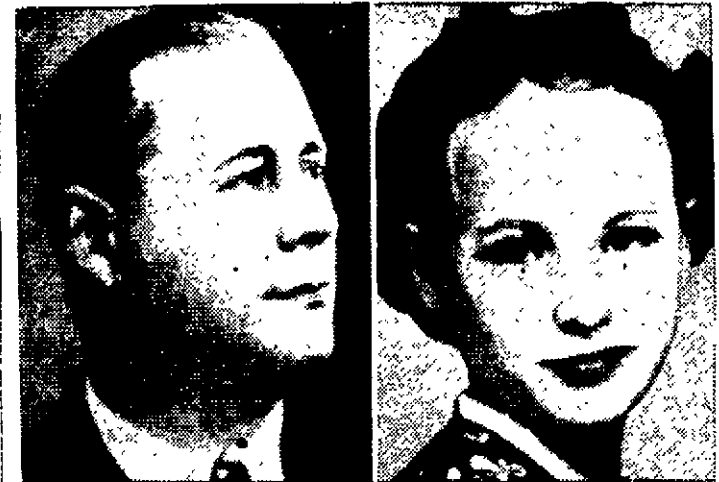

"If he can show me," answered Senator Wicks, "that the same conditions exist in Newburgh as in Albany, I will vote for it."

Cites Public Charges
The Conway-Wicks resolution, discussing alleged "maladministration" of Albany city and county, reads:

"Public charges have heretofore been made on general occasions of maladministration of local government in the city of Albany, the capital city of the state, and in the county of Albany within which said city is located, and it having been charged that racketeering, corruption and vice are rampant within the shadows of the state capital and that the powers of city and county government are abusively exercised to encourage violations of the law, including violations of the election law, and it having been publicly charged that inequalities in the assessed valuation of real property have prevailed, 'in violation of law and that in establishing the valuations for assessment purposes upon real property, particularly within the city of Albany, the law has been violated both as to its letter and spirit, in that discriminations have been made between owners of real property to reward partisan political allegiance and to punish partisan political opposition, and it also having been charged that individuals have exerted a corrupt partisan political influence upon local governmental officials or that such officials have actually exerted such influence to the end that citizens have been forced and coerced to purchase certain commodities, under threat of discrimination in law enforcement or induced to purchase commodities

Shoots Self After Confessing

William P. Purkiser, (above) 52-year-old insurance man, was found shot to death in a rooming house in St. Joseph, Mo., leaving a letter in which authorities said he admitted the brutal killing of Hazelton Black, 17, (also above) in Oklahoma City. The letter referred to trouble Purkiser said he had had with the girl's mother, Mrs. R. W. Schaber, but said he could not account for his actions in the killing.

Bogert Says 9-W Also Will Be Model Route To World's Fair Site

State Highway Department Engineer Says Plans Are Being Drawn for Signs, Pavement Markings, Reflector Buttons—Implies East, West Banks All Same to State

Route 9-W, running from Albany south to the New Jersey line, will also be a "model highway," furnishing to visitors to the New York World's Fair who may wish to avail themselves of the scenic beauties and historic points of interest along that route, all the safety features and advantages of modern road signs and markings that have been developed.

Authority for the statement is D. V. Z. Bogert of New Paltz, State Highway Department engineer in charge of state highways in Ulster county.

Groups Will Meet Thursday to Plan For Blossom Fete

Meeting to Be Held at 8 P. M. at Governor Clinton Hotel; Countywide Council Is Considered Likely

Creation of a countywide council to arrange for the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival and other such affairs, will be discussed at a meeting of a representative group of county organizations at 8 p. m. Thursday evening in the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced today.

The meeting will start at 8 o'clock and invitations have been sent out to various organizations which are expected to be represented at the session.

It is planned among other things to have a county day at the World's Fair in New York.

The present indications are that those interested would favor a centralized Blossom Festival on at least one day and carried out as a county-wide celebration to publicize Ulster county.

Plans for another day of the festival devoted to community celebrations, have been unofficially discussed and the merits of this plan will be taken up fully at the meeting Thursday evening.

Many of those interested in the festival feel that it should be held this year as an added attraction for visitors to the World's Fair who might plan to go sightseeing in this area.

King Carol Names Premier To Succeed Late Patriarch

Bucharest, Rumania, March 7 (AP).—The death of Miron Cristea, premier and patriarch of the Rumanian Church, brought a period of national sorrow today—and a new premier who was hailed as a political "strong man."

Three hours after the death of the venerable Dr. Cristea at Cannes, France, last night, King Carol named as premier, Armand Calinescu, lawyer, educator and vigorous champion of law and order in government. Calinescu had been vice-premier, minister of war and interior. He retains the latter two posts.

Most of the nation heard only this morning of the death from pneumonia of the 69-year-old patriarch, because radio and newspapers withheld the news until the king formed the new government.

To more than 10,000,000 Rumanians the patriarch was Christ's vicar on earth. Another $3,000,000 in Rumania did not recognize him as religious leader but venerated him for the moral authority he brought to the government. National mourning was decreed.

An official of the prime minister's office, Undersecretary Mihail Mogreanu, departed by airplane for Cannes to supervise the homeward journey of the body on Friday.

One of Mogreanu's duties will be to see that the body is placed in a sitting posture for the trip to Bucharest.

From the Rumanian frontier the train will make a slow trip to the capital, pausing at stations to permit peasants to say a prayer before the body, and perhaps to touch the hem of its golden gown. Touching the hem means an eternal blessing.

Roosevelt Meeting With Labor Leaders Is Based on Peace

White House Conference Also Has Purpose of Arranging Time and Place for Actual Negotiations

Both Sides Quiet

Neither Lewis Nor Green Give Any Idea What Terms Figure in Plan

Washington, March 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt called leaders of the CIO and the American Federation of Labor to the White House today to express the hope that their forthcoming peace conferences would end labor's internal strife.

(The meeting was called at 2:30 p. m. eastern standard time.)

The meeting, in response to the President's recent appeal for unity, had another purpose—to arrange a time and place for the actual negotiations.

Secretary of Labor Perkins agreed to escort the rival three-man committees—including CIO leader John L. Lewis—to Mr. Roosevelt's office. Behind the scenes for four months she has sounded out both sides on the possibility of healing the 1935 split over how far the federation should go in organizing mass production workers on industrial union lines.

Leaders Pick Aides
Lewis picked himself and his two top aides, Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman, to constitute the CIO committee. William Green, AFL president, named Matthew Woll, Harry C. Bates and Daniel J. Tobin. When Tobin said he was too busy to serve, Thomas A. Ricketts was chosen.

Both sides have maintained a diplomatic silence on the terms that will figure in the negotiations.

Neutral sources have indicated, however, that both factions already have made some concessions which may facilitate reaching an agreement either to amalgamate some 7,000,000 organized workers or effect a truce on political, legislative and economic issues of common interest.

Depending on Pressure
Administration sources have made it clear they are depending on rank and file pressure to speed the negotiations to a successful conclusion. They are reported prepared to confront the negotiators with stacks of messages from trade union groups on both sides of the fence. The labor department said it had received letters or resolutions from 600,000 workers supporting Mr. Roosevelt's plea for unity.

Reliable labor sources report the positions of the two rivals as follows:

1. The CIO wants guaranteed assurances in any kind of a settlement that industrial unionism—one big union for all workers in a plant—will be protected and promoted.

2. The AFL will recognize industrial unionism for certain specified industries in mass production, such as steel and automobile manufacturing.

Mr. Bogert told a Freeman reporter this morning that while funds to go ahead with the work of erecting standard signs and marking the highway were not yet available, he was busy at the present time making plans for the work and arranging for the necessary material.

Desk Piled With Plans
"My desk is piled with plans and instructions relating to the work," said Mr. Bogert, "and I have already placed an order for special signs to be used."

Mr. Bogert said that the same standardizing as regards signs and road markers, the marking of pavement and the erection of reflector buttons along the sides of the highway, that were contemplated for Route 9 on the eastern side of the river, would be carried out on Route 9-W.

Although he was not informed as to the work to be done on other routes, Mr. Bogert said that "as far as I can gather all the main highway routes in the state will be treated alike in this respect."

Source of Satisfaction
Mr. Bogert's announcement will be received with great satisfaction by residents and business men of Kingston and other communities on the western side of the Hudson, who have been much aroused over the announcement a few weeks since that Route 9, on the east side of the river, was to be made a "model highway." The announcement by the state traffic commission stated that Route 9 would be transformed into a "model highway" in time for the opening of the World's Fair. The information, which was contained in the annual report of the commission, said that Route 9 would be equipped with the latest in traffic control equipment, in anti-

Steamers Resume Trips Along River

Mild Temperatures Dispel Ice Fields in Hudson; Ferry to Return to Schedule Soon

Rain, fog and milder temperatures last week combined to break up the ice fields in the Hudson river, and several tows of ice barges already have passed Kingston Point on the way to Albany.

Practically the only ice left in the river is that alongshore, and floating cakes. The ice in the lower Rondout creek went out some time ago.

At the office of the Rhinebeck-Kingston Ferry Co., it was stated that ferry service across the river soon would be resumed, although the date for resumption of service has not been fixed.

The tug of the Cornell line which have been berthed in the Rondout creek during the winter are being made ready for the resumption of towing.

Inquiry at some of the local brickyards brought out the fact that they expect soon to resume operations. Some of the yards have a considerable supply of brick on hand from last year.

These bricks will be shipped to New York.

There has been little, if any, navigation on the Hudson river this winter, although at intervals a channel was broken through the ice fields by the coast guard cutters Comanche and Manhattan.

Gandhi Breaks His 98-Hour Fast and Will Visit Viceroy

Reforms Demanded by Leader of India's Native Millions Will Be Discussed at New Delhi Palace

Viceroy Undertakes to Pledge New Council; Civil Charges Are Dismissed

Rajkot, India, March 7 (AP).—Wizened, 69-year-old Mohandas K. Gandhi this afternoon ended a fast of 98 hours and 25 minutes to win political reform. He drank a glass of sweet orange juice.

The nourishment was the first since he started the "fast unto death" just over four days ago after drinking a cup of hot goat's milk.

The British Viceroy of India, the Marquess of Linlithgow, intervened in Gandhi's dispute with the ruler of Rajkot, 29-year-old Thakore Sahab Shri Dharmendrasinhji.

Settlement of the dispute—Gandhi sought more democratic forms of government—was regarded as another significant victory for the revered leader of millions of Indians.

Will Visit Viceroy
This afternoon Gandhi accepted an invitation from the viceroy to visit New Delhi as soon as he had regained sufficient strength for personal discussions of the reforms he demanded.

It was understood that the ruler of Rajkot state agreed to fulfill his original promise to set up an advisory council whose purpose would be to suggest ways of introducing a democratic government.

Gandhi started the fast when he and the ruler failed to agree on representation on the council. Gandhi alleged that the Thakore broke the original promise to set up the council when he demanded representation for non-Brahmins not belonging to Gandhi's congress party.

Viceroy's Pledges
Lord Linlithgow today undertook to guarantee that the ruler of Rajkot would set up the council, and promised to refer to the chief justice of India, Gandhi's charge of breach of faith and any future dispute regarding the proposed reforms.

Civil disobedience prisoners held in Rajkot since Gandhi started his campaign were released.

Gandhi voluntarily ended the long fast, which his doctors said was endangering his life, immediately after receiving a letter from Thakore Sahab.

Gandhi opened the letter, smiled weakly, and turning to his attendants, accepted the glass of orange juice which he began sipping slowly.

Gandhi had spent a restless night, much of the time being prevented by nausea from drinking water.

He was rejoined yesterday by his wife, who was released from jail despite rejection of a previous offer of freedom.

Officials to Urge Crossings Action

Mayor, City Assessor Attend Franchise Levies' Hearing Insist on Enabling Act

Mayor C. J. Heiselman and City Assessor George W. Moore motored to Albany this morning to attend the public hearing before the State Tax Commission on franchise assessments.

While in Albany the mayor plans to call on some of the leaders of the State Assembly to urge prompt action on the bill now in the Assembly which provides that the state delay the entire cost of elimination of grade crossings. A similar bill has passed the Senate.

Unless this enabling act, carrying out the grade crossing provisions of the state constitution, passed by the voters at the last election, is passed by the Assembly and signed by the governor, Kingston will not be able to get its grade crossings eliminated.

Mayor Heiselman said this morning that that was the reason why he will call on Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Speaker Heck and other legislative leaders in Albany today in an attempt to speed up action on the Assembly bill.

The New York Central Railroad's plans for the elimination of the ten grade crossings in Kingston are expected to be in the hands of the mayor within the next two weeks. The railroad will pass under Broadway in a cut about 30 feet deep.

As soon as the plans are received by the mayor he will submit them to the common council for approval and call a public hearing of interested property owners and citizens when the plans may be inspected and views presented.

If the elimination plans are approved, the government proposed to bring the Dionnes as guests to Toronto, placing at their disposal two private cars of a special train.

"We would like to have you occupy seats in the Legislative chambers and be present at the luncheon in Hart House when their majesties attend these functions," Nixon wrote.

"The premier has offered his own offices for your exclusive use when the girls are not in the private car on the tracks, and it is thought that they could be presented to their majesties in the privacy of the lieutenant-governor's apartments in the buildings, rather than on the floor of the chamber," the letter continued.

"May I remind you that this would probably be the only opportunity your daughters would ever have to see their majesties."

The letter was made public last night.

Rev. M. L. Drury Is Named To Pastorate at St. Mary's; Has Staten Island Church

Morgenthau Says It With Signs

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau is pressing his business encouragement drive in a novel manner. He shows here a sign, copies of which are being posted in his office and in the Treasury Department, asking "Does it contribute to recovery?"

The idea of the sign in his office, he said, is to notify callers that unless they have something to discuss which would help business he has no time for them.

Sing Sing's Convicts Make Farewell Purse For Father McCaffrey

Priest Who Will Assume Pastorate at St. Joseph's Church Has in 15 Years at 'Big House' Walked More 'Last Miles' Than Any Chaplain in History of Prison

The transfer of the Rev. John P. McCaffrey from Sing Sing to St. Joseph's parish in this city was confirmed today in an Associated Press dispatch from Ossining.

Father McCaffrey, the report says, is a Catholic chaplain, who has walked in prayer with 150 persons to Sing Sing's electric chair. Today he is looking forward to leaving his prison post, convinced of two things:

That mass executions for murder are unjustified; and
That education and religion must be employed in greater measure if crime is to be prevented.

Only 41 years old, Father McCaffrey in the last 15 years accompanied more persons to the death chair than any other chaplain in the 113-year history of the "big house" on the Hudson river.

He is expected to resign shortly to become rector of St. Joseph's Church, a promotion made in recognition of his services.

Sing Sing convicts who receive his spiritual consolation—Catholic, Protestant, Jew, Buddhist, etc.—bittered men of all or no creeds—have taken up a collection for a farewell present.

During his decade and a half at Sing Sing, Father McCaffrey ministered to three condemned women—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Mrs. Annie Antonio and Mrs. Mary Creighton.

Grieved by all executions, the priest has been outspoken in criticism of New York's murder law which makes all participants in a felony equally responsible if someone is killed.

"The executions of three, four, five and six men for the killing of one," he once wrote, "seems to me unfair." Pointing out that the ancient Mosaic law demanded only one death.

Famous Dionnes, Ma, Pa, Kids Invited to Meet King, Queen

Toronto, March 7 (Canadian Press).—Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne have been invited to bring their quintuplet daughters to Toronto to be presented to King George and Queen Elizabeth May 22.

Government circles believed the Dionnes would accept.

It would be the first trip away from home for the five famous little girls and would also be something of a birthday present for them, since their fifth birthday will be celebrated May 28.

The King and Queen are "particularly desirous of seeing your famous quintuplet daughters," Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon wrote Papa Dionne.

The royal couple could not, however, visit the Callander district, so the government proposed

Pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church, Midland Beach, Staten Island, has been named to succeed Monsignor John J. Stanley as pastor of St. Mary's Church, this city, it was announced today.

Ordained in 1917

Studied at Cathedral College, St. Joseph's Seminary, and Also Was Teacher

The Rev. Martin L. Drury, pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church of Midland Beach, Staten Island, has been named to succeed Monsignor John J. Stanley as pastor of St. Mary's Church, this city, it was announced today.

Word of the appointment of the new pastor to the local church was received by the Rev. William H. Kennedy, acting pastor, this morning.

Father Drury has been outstanding for his work as an educator and has won a reputation as a forceful speaker. His appointment here came in recognition for his outstanding work in the Staten Island parish. It is understood, he made no application for the transfer and it came as a surprise to him.

Ordained in 1917

Ordained in 1917, Father Drury taught at Cathedral College in New York, serving also as an assistant at St. Cecilia's Church on 110th street in New York. At the time Bishop Kearney, now of Rochester, was also an assistant in the same parish.

Father Drury studied at Cathedral College and at St. Joseph's Seminary completing his education at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., where he majored in history. His teaching at Cathedral College ended about eight years ago when he was called upon to give his full time to parish work.

The new pastor is expected to arrive at St. Mary's church in time to take up his duties here by a week from next Sunday and it is expected that the parish will plan a welcome for him in conjunction with the annual Holy Name Society's party and dance on St. Patrick's night.

Father Drury developed the parish on Staten Island to a point where it won an outstanding position among those of the diocese. He is known for his executive ability as well as his scholarly attainments, and many young priests now serving in churches of this vicinity remember him as their teacher.

Might Become Dean

Although nothing officially can be learned at this time as to whether the new pastor of St. Mary's will be named Dean, it is likely that he will be honored with this office, since it has so long been associated with St. Mary's parish.

Father Drury was born in New York, and although his exact age is not known here, it is understood that he is no more than 48 years old.

Many priests and Catholic laymen of Kingston will remember Father Drury as a visitor here some time ago. He attended the funeral of Father Alexander Cabell, a native of this city, who at the time of his death was stationed at a parish on Staten Island.

The appointment of Father Drury was made by Bishop Donahue, who is acting in the capacity of archbishop of the diocese pending the appointment of a successor to the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

Planes Roar Over Madrid in Attempt To End Uprising

Madrid, March 7 (AP)—Warplanes were used over Madrid by General Jose Miaja's new republican defense government today in an effort to crush an uprising of "some troops" said to have been inspired by communists.

Earlier pronouncements by General Miaja and his defense minister, General Segismundo Casado said that the revolt—an apparent attempt to force continuation of the civil war as opposed to Miaja's expressed desire for a "worthy peace"—was under control.

It was subsequently reported that communists, who had been holding out in a building on the site of an old race track on Madrid's outskirts, had surrendered but that companion forces still were in possession of a few other buildings elsewhere.

The Miaja government, which succeeded that of Premier Juan

Negrin and included no communists, tried to reassure Madrid citizens by broadcasts that the populace should not be frightened by the presence of fighting planes over the city.

"It is the old republican aviation force standing loyally and unconditionally behind the defense council government," one radio explanation said.

Final Forum Held At Temple Emanuel

The second season of public forums held under the auspices of the Temple Emanuel Men's Club and the Kingston Jewish Alliance closed Monday evening with an illustrated lecture by Tracy H. Logan, Chinese born lecturer and author, whose subject was "Four Hundred Million."

At the close of the lecture officials of the two organizations announced that plans for a bigger and better forum next year were being made, and questionnaires were circulated among the audience to ascertain the type of lectures they desired heard.

The only national unity in China, said Mr. Logan, was interest in family life. According to Mr. Logan hardly anyone considers life worth living unless he is married. The birth rate in China, he said, was very high, but so also was the death rate. The average span of life in China, he said, was not more than half a century.

In China they marry young and a girl who has reached the age of 16 years without being married is considered "on the shelf." Widows, he said, often remarry. Speaking on the customs of the country he said that China places the soldier at the foot of the social scale and those at the top were the scholars; next came the farmer, comprising more than 80 per cent of the country's population; then the priest, the coolie, the beggar and finally the soldier.

Financial and Commercial

Small Average Losses Monday On Stock Market

Although stocks showed some strength in the earlier part of the day profit-taking developed in the afternoon and prices slid off for small average losses for the day. The undertone of the market was regarded as satisfactory, however, and at the close some recovery from the lows of the day was noticeable. Volume was $40,000 shares. For the day industrial issues showed a loss of 0.65, to 143.34 in the Dow-Jones average; rails lost 0.45 point, to 22.53 and utilities were off 0.31, to close at 25.78. Foreign markets were fairly active and firm, both industrial and rail averages on the London market making new 1939 highs.

The bond market was featured by an unusual amount of "switching" transactions in governments. Commodities reacted after early steadiness and the futures index after reaching a new high for the present moved showed a decline for the day. Wheat was easier and closed 1-2 cent lower at 87 1/2 cents. Spot cotton sold at 8 1/8 cents. New season's high, and futures closed five to eight points higher. Hide futures were lower as there were reports from shoe manufacturing centers that new orders are lacking. Copper joined the downward movement.

Steel operations for this week are scheduled at 55.1 per cent of capacity, a drop of 0.7 point from last week.

Union Pacific has placed an order with American Locomotive for 15 locomotives, to cost $2,400,000. L. & N. E. has ordered 100 freight cars from Bethlehem Steel and Maine Central plans to purchase 300 cars.

Reports from ten retailers on February sales, with one exception, showed over the same month last year of from 1.5 to 26.6 per cent. Western Auto having the latter mark. Included in the list are S. S. Kresge, W. T. Grant and J. H. Newberry, with gains of 1.6 per cent, 4.1 per cent and 7.7 per cent respectively.

The Senate is expected to move toward limiting profits of builders of Army airplanes by providing for a strict 10 per cent maximum profit rule in government contracts for planes.

Some additional net income reports for 1938: Corn Products Refining, $9,753,669, or $3.17 a share vs. $3,100,521, or $2.52 a share in 1937. About the Folks

Mrs. Arthur Smith of 85 West Union street is ill at the home of her father at 107 Abel street.

Miss Muriel Mondore of Grand Gorge is recovering at the Benedictine Hospital from a mastoid operation.

New York, March 7 (AP)—The stock market regained its equilibrium today as leading issues moved up fractions to a point or so.

It was a slow-going affair, however, with transfers at the rate of approximately 600,000 shares. Steels, motors, aircrafts, rubbers, rails and specialties were the principal climbers. Prices were a shade under the best near the final hour.

Hopes that business would receive further blessings from the administration, brokers said, continued as the main market prop. At the same time, prospects of a rift between the President and the congressional economy bloc were seen as a cloud on the recently brightening legislative horizon.

Continued strength of stocks in London, with firmness in other overseas markets, was interpreted as a highly encouraging development and one possibly presaging peaceful settlement of political problems which have been confronting Europe.

Bonds were selectively improved, with U. S. governments pointing higher. Commodities were a trifle irregular.

Among the day's 1938-39 news were those of Montgomery Ward, Greyhound National Biscuit and Spiegel, Inc.

On the forward tilt were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, Anaconda, du Pont, Philip Morris, Santa Fe and Great Northern.

In the curb modest advances were posted for Lockheed, Humble Oil, American Gas and Gulf Oil.

Return to Fixed Prices Proposed

Albany, N. Y., March 7 (AP)—Return to a form of state price-fixing was proposed today in the "emergency" caused by invalidation of statutory milk control as some upstate dairymen aimed a blow at injunctions restraining cooperatives from withholding milk from distributors.

Democratic Assemblyman Arthur Wachtel, Bronx county, put before the legislature a bill which would empower the state agricultural commissioner to bill dollar for New York's two-billion dollar industry, based on findings of a proposed milk economic council of not less than 11 or more than 15 members.

Meantime, seeking to force compliance with the outlawed federal-state pact, members of the Lafayette Producers Cooperative said they were acting "solely as individuals" in withholding milk from the Cooperative Dairy, Inc., at Forest Hills, L. I. They denied their action violated an injunction obtained by the dealer restricting the cooperative from interfering with its supply of milk.

While individual producers estimated between 700 and 800 cases of milk would be withheld, J. B. Blum, treasurer of the Cooperative Dairy, said its plant at Onatavia, N. Y., was receiving its "normal supply."

Ford Leaves Jail For Matteawan

Charles Ford, who was committed by County Judge Frederick G. Traver to the Matteawan State Hospital following a hearing last week to determine his mental condition, was taken to the State Hospital this afternoon by Sheriff Abram F. Moynihan.

The condition of Ford, who has been at the Kingston Hospital for a week following a stroke suffered while confined to jail, remains unimproved and the trip was made in one of the Conner Ambulance Service cars.

Ford, held by the grand jury for murder, second degree, for an alleged shooting of Harvey W. Clancy at Phoenix last October 22, has been adjudged insane and was committed to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan following the taking of testimony last week.

Examining physicians testified his mental condition at present was such that he could not assist counsel in preparing a defense. Medical testimony was to the effect that the 77-year-old man probably would never improve.

It is charged Ford shot Harvey Clancy, former justice of the peace, with a shot-gun following a disagreement over a transfer of property. Ford sold his home to Clancy and when he demanded it back and when it was refused he allegedly shot Mr. Clancy in front of the Clancy Grill in the village.

Burger Released On $1,500 Bail

Alonso Burger, 22, of Ulster Park, who waived examination and was held to await action of the grand jury in city court Monday on a charge of second degree rape, was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500 by County Judge Frederick G. Traver Monday afternoon.

Bail was supplied by Elmira Burger who put up a property bond.

Burger, a lay preacher and known in his home community as "the village artist," is charged with rape and is a local 16-year-old girl. It was a story they told to the Kingston police, when they called seeking protection from the young girl's parents, that caused Burger's arrest.

Movie Star to Visit City Via Airport

According to an announcement from the Broadway Theatre today, Esther Ralston, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer movie star, who appears on the stage there with George Sargent and his band Thursday, will be at the Kingston Airport, Wednesday afternoon, to demonstrate a product of the Cub Airplane Corp.

Manager Bert Gildersleeve of the Broadway said that Miss Ralston and Sargent, who is an aviator as well as a band leader, will tour the country advertising their advertising mission. Miss Ralston will be starred as the soloist with Sargent's band. Miss Ralston, the band and several other acts will be presented at the matinee and evening shows.

Contract Action Opens in Court

An action to recover on contract involving the sale of a Ford car was taken up in Supreme Court this morning before Justice Schirlick and a jury. Halsey Sherwood, of Walkkill, doing business under the name of Florence Garage brings an action against Isaac Williams of Modena. Plaintiff alleges he sold a car under contract and now wishes to recover payment. Judge Ewig appears for plaintiff and Michael Nardone for the defendant.

Detective Sergeant John J. Mullerky, veteran of 23 years' service in the Newburgh police department, has been appointed police lieutenant. He was high man on the Civil Service results of the examination taken by him and five fellow officers a week ago.

Frank Flick Dies At Benedictine

Frank J. Flick, a life-long resident of the downtown section of the city, died Monday, March 6, at the Benedictine Hospital, after a short illness.

Mr. Flick kept a confectionery store on Broadway for 31 years, where he endeared himself to many friends. He will be greatly missed by the many children who always congregated at "Flickie's" after school.

Mr. Flick was the son of the late Michael and Agatha Nock Flick.

Surviving him are three brothers, George of Silver Springs, Md., John and Michael of this city, and one sister, Mrs. George Lincoln, of Rochester, N. Y.

Funeral will be held from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, Thursday, March 9, at 9 o'clock, and thence to St. Peter's Church where a Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Bogert Says 9-W Also Model Route

clamation of heavy travel to the fair and would "demonstrate the proper application of standard traffic control equipment."

Down With the Obsolete

It was announced that "all obsolete and non-standard signs, signals and markings will be replaced with standard traffic signs and markings and standard reflectorized signs. An aid to night driving will be demonstrated by reflectors on the shoulders, which will appear through the model highway."

Regarding uniformity in road markings the commission report said that by next spring motorists might expect "a broken line to indicate traffic lanes; a single solid line to indicate separate opposing lines of traffic and a warning not to cross; a solid double line to be used on hills."

This announcement, regarding proposed improvements on Route 9, was immediately taken to mean that this route only would be modernized and that, in effect, at least, motorists to the World's Fair would be advised to follow this route.

Storm of Protest

A storm of protest followed the announcement and the apparent discrimination against other routes, especially 9-W. Numerous organizations, not only in Kingston but elsewhere along the west side of the river, have strenuously voiced their protests at what they felt was an attempt to favor communities on the east side of the river and in effect divert travel from 9-W.

Whether, as Mr. Bogert suggests, there never may have been reason for the agitation and that no discrimination was intended, or whether the strong action that has been taken has been effective, does not appear.

Single Ticket for New Paltz Village Election

Barring later developments, which are not expected, New Paltz village will have a quiet and peaceful village election in April.

At the village caucus, held in the American Legion building last night, the voters agreed on a non-partisan ticket, a course which has been followed for some time past.

George Millham, who has served the village as mayor for three terms, was again named for that position, without opposition. For trustees the voters nominated Emory G. Jacobs of the Normal School faculty and William F. Schmalkuche, manager of the A. & P. store in New Paltz. The latter succeeds D. V. Z. Bogert of the state highway department, who has served as trustee for six years, having been elected three times.

Belgian Towns Get New Titles

'Wipers' of World War Days Now Ieper; Flemish Spelling Used.

WASHINGTON.—Ypres, the Belgian town in West Flanders known to thousands of American and British soldiers during the World War as "Wipers," is henceforth to be written, Ieper, its Flemish spelling, according to news dispatches from Brussels.

"Ieper is one of several towns in Flanders whose names have been reported changed by order of the royal Belgian commission of names and dialectics," says the National Geographic society. "Other towns and their new titles are: Louvain, now to be called Leuven; Bruges, Brugge; and Courtrai, Kortrijk."

"This change of names from French to Flemish emphasizes that Belgium is a bilingual country. The Flemish portion of Belgium is the northern and western parts of the country, and the French, or Walloon, is the southern. In Brussels, both Flemish and French are spoken."

Long Important City.

"Dating from the Ninth century, Ypres reached the zenith of its power in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries, when it was famed as a manufacturing center with a population of 200,000. Clothmaking was introduced into Ypres toward the end of the Eleventh century. It soon became the chief industry of the town and the reason for its phenomenal growth, and accompanying wealth. Another famous product of Ypres was Valenciennes lace."

Ypres ranked with Bruges and Ghent as one of the most important industrial cities of the Middle Ages and vied with them for prestige. Rivalry between them became so intense that jealousies, plus the losses due to the great plague of 1383, finally led to their industrial decline. By the end of the Sixteenth century there were not more than 5,000 people in Ypres.

Important monuments to the greatness of this once prominent city were the magnificent Cloth hall and the beautiful Cathedral of St. Martin.

"Surviving the ravages of time and strife, these two great monuments of man's ingenuity were reduced to ashes and rubble during the World War, when the region around Ypres became a bitterly disputed battleground. Not only were the magnificent Gothic structures leveled, but nearly all of the once beautiful town was destroyed."

War Brought New Fame.

"However, this war, which took away its old glory, brought to Ypres new fame and world attention. It has been called the 'Martyr City' and the 'Holy Ground of British Arms,' because of the thousands of British soldiers who died here. On the edge of the town a memorial has been erected to them—the Menin gate. Dedicated in 1927, this arch has engraved on its sides the names of the 56,000 British soldiers whose graves are unknown. Each evening at dusk a bugler sounds the 'last post.'"

"Ypres has been partially rebuilt, 4,000 men being engaged in the gigantic task. In 1934 King Leopold dedicated the new belfry erected amidst the ruins of the Cloth hall. The hall itself, now built in miniature, can perhaps never be restored to its former glory, because of the many glorious relics and furnishings which were destroyed. The Cathedral of St. Martin was almost entirely rebuilt between 1922-1930."

Women Reverse Tables; Aim Jibes at Male Hats

CHICAGO.—A women's organization combating "taxes that penalize the consumer" reversed the tables and—for a change—told men something about men's hats.

Instead of swallowing the male jokes about oddities in feminine headgear, women of the National Consumers Tax commission retaliated with a study showing 107 taxes—local, state and national—boost the price of men's felt hats by 11 per cent.

Leveled originally against fur producer, leather band, ribbon, lining, binding, hat and box makers, transporters and retailers, the taxes are passed on by each to the consumer, stated Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier, NCTC president.

"Instead of laughing at our hats," Mrs. Frazier said, "men should learn a few things about their own. Few of them probably realize hidden taxes take 57 cents of the price of a $5 hat."

"The women, at least, are doing something about it. Organizing in local groups from coast to coast, they are showing the men how standards of living are threatened by the hidden tax burden on practically every purchase."

Freak Animal Is Puzzle; Has Cat Head, Hare Legs

DALTON, MASS.—Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hagar were surprised when a strange animal hopped into their doorway. The forepart of the Hagar's new pet resembles a normal tiger cat, and has cat's paws. But the rear part has long, double-jointed legs which cause the animal to hop like a rabbit. A short tail and long, furless ears complete its unusual features.

Schneider Raps Senator Wicks

AMERICAN LABOR PARTY
Ulster County Branch,
594 Broadway,
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor,
Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:

A recent newspaper article appeared in a Kingston daily paper stating that Senator Arthur H. Wicks was an ally of Queens county. It was a republished "editorial." While in New York last week my attention was called to this release and upon inquiring into this great friendship that supposedly exists between the senator of the 29th and Queens, I found that the first question asked was, "Who is he anyway?" and the second, "I never heard of that paper in Queens before."

When it was explained that the senator is the author of the grade crossing legislation which will saddle the Queens taxpayers with more burdens, both the senator and his self-inspired editorial were universally condemned.

Many of the N. Y. C. transit workers who live in Queens county, upon being informed that Senator Wicks was their friend were quite surprised to hear of it, in view of the Wicks transit bill, which if passed would take away the seniority rights, pensions and collective bargaining rights of 29,000 workers and force 15,000 to 20,000 of them from the system. To quote one of the Queens transit employees:

"This letter or editorial written about Wicks being a pal of Queens county in a 'Shadow-sheet' is a phony bit of backslapping by Wicks himself to bolster up a damaged reputation and his failure to win the majority leadership because of his interference in the transit affairs and Home Rule in N. Y. C."

Yours truly,
J. J. SCHNEIDER,
County Chairman.

LABOR PEACE

The public looks on hopefully as the big labor groups try to make peace among themselves. And so do employers. Whatever help the government can give will help both of these great economic groups.

There were some people who at first welcomed the cleavage in the ranks of American labor. But employers, workers and the public in between have come to see that it is a bad arrangement, especially with the "new charter" that permits and assumes the general organization of labor in this country.

If labor is to be organized in order to deal with capital, as capital generally is organized to deal with labor, it is easier with unity on both sides. And if there is such unity, the government, which occupies a sort of middleman function, is in better position to serve both employers and employees.

This is not merely an issue between William Green and John Lewis and the partisan members behind both. It has come to be an issue between labor as a whole and employers as a whole. Labor should not be fighting labor any more than capital should be fighting capital. In time of war this would not do at all, and in a time of great economic difficulties such as the nation is in today it makes recovery more difficult.

Both patriotism and self-interest in the long run require that labor should be at peace with itself, and that labor and capital and government should all be at peace with each other. This is the way of safety and prosperity.

SWAPPING GOODS

There is more talk about adopting barter to increase our foreign trade and get rid of our farm surpluses. There are vast accumulations of cotton, wheat and other products to be worked off. The German government has been conducting much of its international trade by this procedure, because it lacked money for direct purchase of needed imports, and is said to be feeling for such an arrangement in this country.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace shows no enthusiasm for such direct dealings with the Hitler regime, and questions the sincerity of German consuls said to be seeking barter arrangements with American farmers in the middle west. Still, he says, that is one of the possibilities being studied, and "anything we can do to increase the purchasing power of foreign countries would help the American farmer."

The trouble has been, in many of the Nazi swapping deals, that while the Germans got what they wanted, the other parties had to take what they could get. As a result, one of the Balkan countries, in return for a lot of grain, is said to have on hand enough aspirin to last it for half a century. Some deals with Latin-American countries seem to have been almost as unsatisfactory.

In any event, Americans do not want to do any trading with dictatorship countries that would amount to munitioning or provisioning them for war against the democracies.

Another thing this country beats the world for is climate: you can get any kind you want, at any time, by hopping into a train or plane or flivver and heading in the right direction.

AMERICAN SUMMER

Nine million American families—four persons to a family—are going to be on the move this year, according to travel observers. A large part of migration will be in the direction of one or both of the two World Fairs which are showing the rest of us one way out of the depression. But not all. There will be much motoring here and there into national parks and vacation spots including every sort of scenery and climate, from mountains to seashore and river valley.

"Cash registers all over the country," says an automobile sales manager, "will soon ring out the news that the greatest movement of population the world has ever seen is under way. And the keys on the register marked new cars, good used cars, gasoline, tires and authorized service will ring up the majority of dollars."

The keys marked lodging and food and soft drinks and swimming suits and camping equipment and ice cream will keep up a pretty good clatter, too. Even the folks who stay at home will keep a few cash registers busy recording sales of porch and garden furniture.

We are not all employed, and those of us who are working are not all prosperous, but neither are we refugees, nor pawns in a dictator's game, and we manage to have a pretty good time.

A POWER FOR PEACE

Eugenio Pacelli, former papal secretary of state and now Pius XII, seems to be a man worthy of following his great predecessor. Cardinal Pacelli was regarded, during many troubled years, as Pius XI's most able assistant. He is familiar with the political and economic problems with which the Papacy has to deal, along with its strictly religious functions. The Vatican has another Statesman-Pope, at a time when the world greatly needs international statesmanship capable of taking a broad view of this troubled world, and thinking in terms not of years but of ages. He should be a power for world peace. The Papacy has this unique quality, that being so old and self-perpetuating, it is, so to speak, ageless. It is the only direct link our modern civilization has with ancient times. On its secular side the Catholic Church grew out of the declining Greek Empire. It has seen countless states and empires rise and pass away. It will doubtless survive some systems now challenging the world and boasting, as Adolf Hitler boasts of his Nazi system, that it will last for "a thousand years."

Another national census is coming next year. But why go to all that trouble, when experts could do it just by "sampling" people here and there?

Cheer up, kids: Thomas A. Edison was expelled from school because he "couldn't learn anything."

A thief in Cleveland stole a policeman's revolver and returned it to him by mail; and yet they say there's no honor among thieves.

While we're voting pensions to everybody, why not make a thorough job of it and abolish all taxes?

FISAL OUTCOME OF ANXIETY STATES

Now that it is known that a patient who is "anxious" all the time is in the need of treatment just the same as a patient with some other ailment, much is now being done to relieve this "anxiety" state.

The physician first makes a complete examination and if he can find no cause why the patient should be so anxious and tensed all the time, the patient is asked to tell all that is on his mind aside from any pains, aches, or other symptoms. The patient gets some relief by just telling his whole story, as some one else now shares some of his burden. The fears, one by one, are fully discussed or brought to the light of day, and the physician is able to show that there is little or no grounds for most of the fears. He advises that a little more will power and more mixing with others, and especially those who have similar unnecessary fears, corrects the trouble in most cases.

Many physicians, including myself, often wonder what becomes of these cases with the anxiety state.

Dr. A. Harris, in British Medical Journal, tells of his attempt to find out the present condition of 250 patients at the Maudsley Hospital during the years 1924, 1925 and 1926, in which the illness was called "anxiety neurosis," "anxiety state," "nervous depression," and "anxiety hysteria." He was able to get a follow-up history of 123 of the 250 cases and found that thirty-eight, nine had developed psychosis (thought they had an organic ailment) and sixteen were dead.

The above findings show that these anxiety states may persist for years, ten or more, and the number of cases where condition grew worse (nine) was small, and these did not go on to organic or serious mental disease.

The patient's chances of returning to work are as good, as four out of every five were able to return to work.

If the patient's habits of life remain about the same as before the anxiety state occurred, his chances of complete recovery are excellent.

I believe these figures of a follow-up of this large number of patients, ten or more years after they first reported their anxiety state, should be comforting to patients afflicted with these conditions and to their families and physicians.

Labor Peace Negotiations Spell Doom to Any Wagner Act Amendments This Session of Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939.)

Washington, March 7.—Peace negotiations between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., with the federal government as mediator, will delay, if not perhaps erase altogether, the chances of amending the Wagner Labor Relations Act at this session of Congress.

The announcement by Senator Thomas of Utah, chairman of the Senate committee on labor, that, in view of the negotiations, the hearings on proposed amendments must be postponed, has been published, but back of it lies a determination on the part of one labor group to prevent from coming up in Congress the very subject matter of the dispute.

Thus, as one C. I. O. leader said, how could there be any peace negotiations if Congress were considering the emasculation of those provisions of the existing law which permit industrial unionism?

Announcement has come nevertheless from A. F. of L. sources that bills are to be sponsored for a re-creation of the labor board. This means getting rid of all the present memberships and requiring new appointments by the President and, of course, new confirmation by the Senate.

What the A. F. of L. has done is in line with action taken at their annual executive committee meeting in Miami recently, but it would be surprising if the bills were pushed at this time. Certainly, the peace negotiations will not get very far if the struggle as between craft and industrial unions is transferred to Capitol Hill. Under such circumstances, the C. I. O. negotiators might well decline to go on until the issue had been settled in Congress.

The first to prevent any amendments from being made to the Wagner Act is one which will take on renewed significance according as the negotiations may seem to rise or fall. Thus, while at the moment the C. I. O. has an advantage in keeping the legislative situation at a standstill, the impending threat of a legislative step which may define the respective jurisdictions of craft and industrial unions and forbid the board to exercise discretionary judgment will be in the background as the negotiators between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. pursue their arguments across the peace table.

That the debate will be prolonged seems inevitable. Even if there is a meeting of minds, the details of a truce or working agreement until further steps can be taken is likely to extend over a protracted period. Certainly it seems improbable that by May or June, the situation will have clarified sufficiently for the Congress to be willing to take a hand in the ticklish political questions involved in deciding what is an "appropriate unit" for collective bargaining. What the members of the National Labor Relations Board have been unable to decide satisfactorily through a series of perplexing decisions is not likely to prove easy for members of Congress to decide.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 82—River Queen

Although having the distinction of once being General U. S. Grant's private dispatch boat and also honored by being selected to convey one of the United States' greatest presidents, Abraham Lincoln, on a mission of peace, the "River Queen" was one of the steamboats about which little is remembered by followers of the famous Hudson river vessels.

Benjamin C. Terry built the wooden hull of the "River Queen" at Keyport, New Jersey, in 1864. She was 181 feet long, breadth of beam 25 feet five inches, depth of hold nine feet. Her gross tonnage was 375 with a net tonnage of 126, and she was propelled by a vertical beam engine with a cylinder diameter of 18 inches with a 10 foot stroke.

The "River Queen" was originally built for service in and about New York waters but she was soon chartered by the federal government and placed in service as General Grant's private dispatch boat on the Potomac river during the last year of the Civil War.

The year-old vessel was recognized as a steamboat of extreme beauty, and because of this she was selected to convey President Abraham Lincoln and the peace commissioners from Washington to City Point on the James river, where they were to meet a similar delegation representing the Confederate government.

At the close of the Civil War the "River Queen" was returned to service in New York harbor, and later was placed on a route between New York and New Hamburg on the Hudson river as a freight and passenger vessel. She left this route until 1871 when she was taken east and operated under the banner of the Newport Provisional Company between 1872 to 1880 the "River Queen" was in service crossing Nantuxet Sound as a running mate to the steamboat "Island Home."

During this period of service the "River Queen" was operated in Vineyard and Nantuxet Sounds by the Vineyard Company, replacing the steamboat "Monohansett," which had been chartered to the Old Colony Railroad to run in connection with its Woods Hole branch line. The Vineyard Company finally sold the "River Queen" for $50,000 to the Nantuxet & Cape Cod Steamboat Company who kept her in island service until the autumn of 1881. For several years afterwards she was chartered to various parties around New York and farther south.

During the winter of 1891 the "River Queen" was sold to the Mount Vernon & Marshall Hall Steamboat Company of Washington, D. C. Under the ownership of this company she saw service on the Potomac river until 1911 when she was deemed completely worn out and dismantled. The hull of the "River Queen," a steamboat once honored by the presence of Abraham Lincoln, was finally converted into a coal barge—ending a brilliant and notable steamboat career.

Inventions by Alexander Bell
Before he had reached the age of 17, Alexander Graham Bell had devised a method for removing the husks from wheat. Among his more important inventions may be mentioned the harmonic multiple telegraph, the fundamental method that underlies the electric transmission of speech in any form in any part of the world, the magneto-electric speaking telephone, the photo-phonograph for transmitting speech and other sounds to a distance by means of a beam of light, an induction-balance with magneto-electric telephone for painlessly locating bullets or other metallic masses lodged in the human body, telephone probe to determine the position and depth of metallic masses in the body, the spectrophone for determining the range of audibility of different substances in the spectrum, tetrahedral kites and kite structures. Bell was joint inventor of the graphophone and flat disc records for recording and reproducing speech, music and other sounds, and also joint inventor in a number of improvements designed to promote aerial locomotion in connection with the Aerial Experiment Association (1903-08).

Directors Are Chosen

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE SALVATION ARMY?

As chairman of the 1939 appeal I am asking the citizens of the City of Kingston, and the county outside the city, that question.

We started out to raise a budget of $5,000. So far, to date, we have only around $2,000 in money and pledges and our drive should be completed.

Do You Wonder That I am Disappointed?

The women and men who have given their time so willingly to work for this campaign find it impossible to personally call on all of you.

As part of my contribution to the Salvation Army I am paying for this advertisement, asking and hoping that you will help us reach our goal by sending a dollar, or as much as you can afford, to John H. Saxe, treasurer, Salvation Army, Kingston, N. Y.

Try to give something. Don't put it off until tomorrow, you may forget it. Let me include you in carrying on this work.

Personally, I wish to thank all those who have worked in this campaign.

The committee has furnished no dinners, nor gone to any expense for its workers. All that has been collected has gone to the army.

PRATT BOICE, Chairman,
1939 Salvation Army Appeal.

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines—constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are harmless. Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

As Businessmen Leave on Warwaring Visit

Freeman Photo

Members of the Kingston Business Men's Association are shown as they prepared to leave Kingston Friday to make a tour of Southern Ulster county and to make a survey of the progress on the new New York Water project. One purpose of the trip was to ascertain when work will be resumed so that the business men might prepare for the increased consumption of merchandise that will result from the hundreds of men that will receive jobs. Left to right, are: Albert C. Flanagan, A. W. Mollott, Sam Bernstein, Arthur Colligan, Gus Modjeska, John Egan, William Hardenbergh and Walter Elston.

Americans Asking King Post Birthday Party

Extensive plans are in the making for a great observance of the 20th anniversary of the birth of the American Legion.

Every one of the 11,506 posts of the American Legion have been asked by National Headquarters to commemorate the dates, March 15th to 20th. In line with this policy Kingston Post, "American Legion," will stage its second annual birthday party on the evening of Monday, March 20. As announced last week, the committee met and formulated plans for the event and those plans are gradually working out towards a party that promises to be even bigger and better than last year's most successful event.

The Legionnaires, their wives and friends, will "take over" Spinnys in Port Ewen on the evening of the 20th and stage a real celebration. At a meeting of the committee held Sunday afternoon at the Legion, Entertainment Chairman William T. Rodell asked for a further appropriation to secure a real high-class floor show. "We can get a floor show with some big-league entertainers," said Entertainment Chairman Rodell. "All that I need is a bigger appropriation for I can get several of WOR's best entertainers and may also be able to secure a radio dance band." General Chairman P. J. Beichert put the matter before the committee and a substantial amount was voted to assure one of the best shows ever staged in this vicinity. It is expected that Chairman Rodell will have an important announcement along these lines within the next few days.

Other members of the committee who have special detail to attend to reported at the meeting they had made progress in their assignments. Distinguished Guest Chairman A. J. Murphy stated he had contacted Judge Feibum St. George Bissell, a former head of the National 10 and 8 Society, but owing to a previous engagement on that evening, the judge would be unable to attend. Efforts are being made to secure Joseph J. Burkard, a past commander of New York county and past commander of Philip E. Sheridan Police Post of New York city. Mr. Burkard is also president of the Patrolmen Benevolent Association and an able speaker. He is spoken of as the next state department commander.

Lester C. Elmendorf, in charge of the assembling of the past commanders of the post and past presidents of the Ladies' Auxiliary, reported making contacts and expected all of them would be on hand for the birthday cake ceremony. This ceremony proved very effective last year and it is hoped will be a continued feature of the annual birthday party of the Post. Lester Barth, the birthday cake chairman, announced he is preparing to have everything in readiness for the ceremony.

The reception committee, headed by Edward J. Luedtke, will function to see that everyone is welcomed and properly seated. Those two funmakers of the local Post, Tommy Murray and Jerry Martin, will have charge of the fun and frolic part of the program and while they were a little vague in what they have in store, they do promise some real surprises.

Tickets are in the hands of all of the members of the committee and while the local Legionnaires are fully expectant of being able to take care of anyone wishing to attend, it is likely that a limit will have to be set. The members of the ticket committee follow: Harry L. Kirchner, John T. Groves, Al Messinger, A. Theodore Young, George A. Dittmar, Edmund J. Coughlin, John Melville, Thomas J. Morrissey, E. B. Carey and Eugene Freer.

'MARCH LIKE A LAMB' really means something to Manager Charles Ackman on the Justus Mulert farm at Frankfort Springs, Pa., where the first of the windy month brought triplets to this Shropshire. That neighborhood was reporting 72 degrees while Iowa was digging out of an 18-inch snow.

HER MOTHER LOST the match, but Norma Taubele softened that defeat by wiping off the marks of battle. This was in the quarter-finals of the national indoor championships in New York and Norma, the No. 1 seeded player, beat her mother, Mrs. Rose Taubele, 6-4, 6-3. Norma is 27; her mother, 56.

STEP RIGHT UP, FOLKS, and see if you can hit Vernon "Goofy" Gomez, the Yankees pitcher playing "I spy" behind a new catcher's dummy hung up at the camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., to encourage hurling accuracy. Lefty said he preferred looking through the catcher's glove to firing a ball through it.

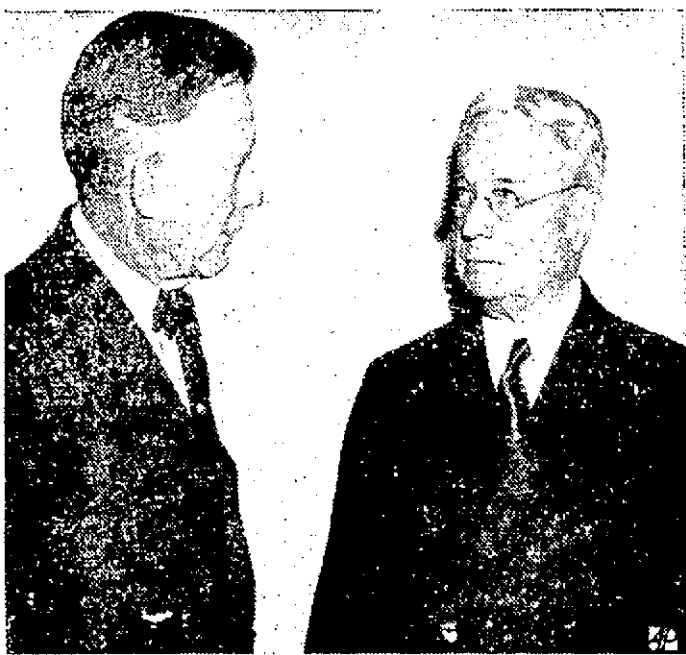

SHAKE WELL BEFORE USING seemed the right medicine for dusky Buster Brown whose under-sweater wells looked suspiciously like baseballs. They were, but this pre-season shakeup was all in fun, with George Kelly, Boston Bees coach, doing the assist at the Bees training camp in Bradenton, Fla.

Handsome Slip Cover You Can Make Yourself

Cord-Trim Easy to Sew On

Presto, change! Your old chair like new with this smart slip cover. And surprising how easily and inexpensively you whip it up.

What fabric? Heavy crash—so fresh and springlike now—wears sturdily the year round. Stunning is dark blue with a thick white cord outlining seams. Or try a decorator's favorite combination—red-brown fabric and yellow cord.

For a trim fit, simply smooth the fabric over the chair, wring side out for the plain seams you make when you use cord trimming. Work from top of back to front of seat, pin every three inches where seams will be. Cut carefully outside pins, leaving 1 1/2 inches for seams.

The arms, back and sides are pinned and cut the same easy way. For arm fronts make paper patterns.

All parts are neatly pinned together, take the cover off, baste and try on. Fit pleated flounce to skirt, whip cord over the finished seams as diagram shows.

In the same simple way you can make smart slip covers for any chair or sofa. Our 32-page booklet diagrams and explains each step—how to fit and cut, sew and trim. Helpful suggestions on colors, materials, styles.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 435 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Ascy Mayo, famous Cape Cod serialist.
Weston, Ascy's cousin, a selectman.

Yesterday: It's Old Home Week in Billingsgate. Weston tells Ascy he anticipates trouble.

Chapter Two

'Quaint Old Town'

"Now you listen," Weston continued. "We're a town of around a thousand. We got more'n live thousand coming here to stay for the whole week. We got thousands more tourists coming by the day. We're going to be paid by Philbrick's for broadcasting every day. Quaint old-time town, see?"

"I see, but—" "And we're going to be a quaint old-time town, see? Nothing's going to spoil it! We're going to make enough out of this coming week to pay up all the town debts, and have a surplus left big enough to pay up roads, and the Town Hall, and the new wharf, and everything. No more relief and unemployment problems for us, see? We're going to wipe out the red ink and start out fresh, and—" "But Weston, you—" "And furthermore," Weston's fist was pounding the car door, "furthermore, we've gone and spent so much that if this doesn't you don't want me. You want real help. You got to put your Week across, and you can't risk any slips. But if you explain things to the police, they'll keep mum. I'd be glad to help, but—"

"You will?" Weston said happily. "Then you'll settle things? You won't need the cops. Not you, Ascy. All you got to do is to see that nothing bad gets out, or happens, until next Sunday. You will, won't you?"

Ascy hesitated. He had visions of all the family landing on him if he didn't, and landing with both feet.

"Well," he said at last, "I'll see what I can do. But mind you, if I get bogged with your malfeasance, or tourists, or microphones, or if your bonanza dries up on you, don't you go to blame me!"

"I won't. I won't!" Weston said. "You can have anything or anyone you want to help."

"An' furthermore," Ascy said, "if I need police help, I'll call for it."

Town Hall

QUORLY after five o'clock that same afternoon, Ascy strolled into the Town Hall by the rear entrance.

Except for occasional thumpings from the basement, the noises had stopped and the crowds dwindled to handfuls. The vacuum cleaners and the waxing machines had done their duty; nothing was spick and span, gleaming with an anticipatory polish. Weston go over, we're licked for good! Whatever's going on has got to be stopped, quiet and quick. Nothing's going to keep this Old Home Week from being a success! And Weston's trying to, you got to be silent, see?"

The girl, a stranger to Ascy, approached him.

"I got the point," Ascy told him. "On five minutes ago, in a nut-shell, the fair name of Billingsgate's got to shine till the coffers are filled. It's a patriotic point, cousin, and well taken. Half a column of sabotage didn't, an' pop out the budget. Only I ain't—"

"I never," Weston spoke deliberately, "put any stock in all the chatter about your always being willing to solve cases for rich summer folks, and nobody else. Of course, as a matter of fact, all the problems you took on have been for rich people. I suppose knowing the Porters so well, and all their rich friends, and helping Bill Porter with these cars, you've kind of lost touch with the Cape. I hear you got thousands and thousands of dollars, just finding lost cats and things, and of course I see where you wouldn't be interested in helping out here, for, say, fifty dollars the week. I got some bonus bonds," he added thoughtfully, "and I suppose I could always mortgage the house. I've never been mortgaged in all the two hundred years we had it, but—"

'You Won't Need Cops'

"NOW see here, Weston," Ascy's tone made Weston feel that perhaps he had gone a little far. "I don't mind your laying it on with a trowel, but I do resent your bringing in a steam shovel! You're using good Cape tactics—family tactics, 'cause I know 'em. But you're heading the wrong way."

"I just wanted to—" "I know. But first off, you know right well the only reason I never took on anything for the folks around here is that they don't get themselves into trouble like summer people an' city neep. Always do. No one hereabouts ever asked me for help, except like for fixin' cars, or boats, or nurvies, or houses, or such. An' you know I never took a cent for helpin' anyone in all my life. I don't need money. I got all I want. The only thing I'm tryin' to bring out is this, that if things is as serious as you say, had got back onto his job, too. The bulletin boards were covered with schedules in his neat writing, listing every angle of every committee assignment for the entire week.

Grimacing, Ascy paused to read through the orders of the Welcoming Committee, for whom there was apparently to be never a dull moment. Upjohn's Merry-makers, instructed past him to their bus. The captain of the coast guard station called out a greeting as he herded a detachment of Boy Scouts into his big-lired beach truck.

Ascy waved and strolled on down the hall to the Women's Club Parlor. Years of experience with the decorations of church fairs, suppers, and similar entertainments told him that the room was Done. He tried to make his survey impartial, but the results still left him with an intense dislike for crepe paper in quantity, and still wishing that Billingsgate had chosen for its official colors some other shades of blue and yellow.

Only a few women lingered in the parlor, and they were too busy packing up tack hammers and aprons and trying on huge blue and yellow rosettes in front of the mirror, to notice his presence.

He was about to speak to one of them when a girl, a stranger to him, approached him in the corridor. She was a tall girl, good looking in a dark way, and probably a visitor, he decided from her smartly cut blue dress and jacket. Bill Porter's wife Betsy had an outfit like that, and he and Bill had howled at New York's prices for faded denim.

"Mr. Mayo," Aunt Sarah Leach sent me to—" "I was huntin' her," Ascy said. "Has she gone?"

"Yes. She said she thought you might want her, and I told her I'd wait and take you over to Briar Path."

"Thanks, but my roadster's here. I can—" "But she said I was to be sure to take you," the girl persisted. "She said that you were to leave your roadster at the garage."

Ascy nodded. Aunt Sara Leach had some information for him, and she didn't want everyone to spot that famous roadster at her door.

"A pessimist should never be employed to write up a spring seed catalogue."

Richard Baxter was given to saying that certain people possessed "wheelbarrow religion."

Friend—Why do you say that? Richard Baxter—Because they go only when they are pushed.

Benjamin Franklin, of course, is universally regarded as the leading printer America has produced. He was also America's first outstanding salesman.

A competitor by the name of Andrew Bradford had the contract to do all the public printing for the state of Pennsylvania. The governor made an important address. Bradford printed it in his usual slovenly manner. This presented the opportunity Franklin wanted. He reprinted the speech elegantly in a form appropriate to the governor's office. Then he mailed a copy with his compliments to the governor and to each member of the Assembly. The next year he was awarded the contract for all public printing.

Franklin sampled his ability. He gave the governor and the members of the Assembly a sample of how he could do their work.

Husband—You know, dear, your griddle cakes always remind me of a baseball game.

Wife—How's that, dear? Husband—The batter doesn't always make a hit.

Ragson, Tatters from Brushville was in town one day last week. He got to discussing the farm situation with the elevator man in one of the downtown buildings.

Ragson—Farming is a funny business. Elevator Man—I wondered why you are so happy.

Ragson—I ain't happy, but farming is a funny business just the same. We buy good seed and work hard taking care of the crop, and pray for rain when we need it, and then what happens?

Elevator Man—I'll tell you. What does?

Ragson—You ought to know. What happens is that if we work hard enough, and the weather is good to us, so that we succeed in raising a good crop, the price goes down until it ain't worth no middlemen. You tell us we raised too much. If any one else is a success in his business, he gets his name in the papers and an invitation to speak at the Rotary Club. But if a farmer is a success, he goes broke.

Elevator Man—You have the satisfaction of helping feed the hungry.

Ragson—The trouble with the hungry is that they want to be fed for nothing. You city folks tell us that there ain't no such thing as a surplus, but if that's so, what's the matter with the market? Elevator Man—What you ought to go is to cut down your expenses.

Ragson—The only way we can cut down expenses is not to buy so much. That makes hard times for the merchants and the factories and less work for the folks that work in them. Where's any sense in that?

Elevator Man—You're getting too technical.

Ragson—The trouble is that no one else will work unless he gets paid for it. Us farmers is the world's prize suckers. We work hard all year, and then pass the hat and save thank you for what-ever we get, no matter how little.

Elevator Man—No, you don't. You sit around and kick and expect the government to help you out.

Ragson—If we could get a fair price, we wouldn't need no help.

Elevator Man—What are you going to do about it?

Ragson—Blamed if I know.

Elevator Man—Going up!

Read It Or Not Animals, as well as human beings, are subject to snow-blindness.

Controversy soon runs itself into the ground. The man who is bent on putting over some plan or idea, should be careful not to get lost in the endless maze of public quarrel.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—If he is nothing else, Derak Winston is a very persuasive guy. Mr. Winston is a bespoke tailor, and at the risk of being stared at by my more fashionable acquaintances I will admit that I never knew what a bespoke tailor was until Mr. Winston, in a properly inquisitive mood, faced me in his Madison avenue offices and explained.

A bespoke, it seems, is a tailor who accepts requests for hand-made garments which are to be delivered at a future date. Mr. Winston is a bespoke tailor, which means really a maker of fine clothes for gentlemen, and he is also an authority on all matters of dress.

For instance, a short man should always have a portion of his shirt-cuff showing, as it breaks the hip-line and lends an illusion of added height.

And dark complexioned people should wear only dark flowers in their lapels. A burgundine carnation, say, for brunettes, or a deep red rose, although Mr. Winston, in an aside, privately expressed the opinion that only gentlemen should wear roses. The carnation is the man's flower.

MR. WINSTON thinks the necktie is important, as dignity in clothes is often expressed by just the proper cravat. Regimental stripes and small-figured ties are deemed wisest for business men, with the more vivid colors reserved for evening.

All this attention to accessories is merely a service that Winston is pleased to provide for his clients, although tailoring itself is his major interest. He thinks any man with any livable income can be well-dressed, and it is his pleasure to create fine (well-tailored) clothes at a reasonable figure.

YEARS of experience in England gave Mr. Winston a thorough knowledge of fabrics, so that when he speaks of clearcuts (a fabric without knaps), or Shetlands, you know that he knows what he is talking about.

While speaking of clearcuts he seized a near-completed garment to illustrate his point, and I said, "That's a nice looking coat. Who's it for?" "For Harry McNaught," he replied. "For Harry McNaught," he replied, "as you know, is famous for his 'Bottles' on Phil Baker's program. Bottles is only one of many celebrities who seek the Winston touch. Noel Coward invited him to 'dress' his new show, 'Set to Music,' which he did.

And Tallulah Bankhead, the Alabama congresswoman's actress daughter, who said she didn't care who played the role of Scarlett O'Hara just so they let the South win, is on his order book for three tailored women's suits, which proved, Mr. Winston said, that for 'suits really tailored, women must come to a man's tailor.'

Ruth—Was your father a college man?

Fred—Yes, but he never mentions it. His football team didn't win a game for three years.

Byrdcliffe Series

Now in Book Form

Lectures of last summer's Byrdcliffe Afternoons, which marked another step forward in Woodstock's cultural life, have been put down for record in a permanent bearing the name of the lecture series.

The book, which has just been typed and printed and published by the Book Press at Woodstock, is in the lecture series, is priced at $1.00.

"Byrdcliffe Afternoons" had its origin during a discussion of the other day, then, by a group of people who strongly favor the mountain-side retreat in the art colony. They decided upon an organization to further their idea after it took definite root last spring.

In the first series of lectures last summer, some of the most prominent people in American cultural life were presented and the idea met with more success than expected by its boosters.

The list of speakers included Dr. James T. Shotwell, professor of international history at Columbia University; Waldemar Kaempfert, science editor of the New York Times; Dr. Gerald Groveland Walsh, S. J., professor of Italian, Graduate School, Fordham University; Dr. John Erskine, author and former president of the Juilliard Graduate School of Music, New York; Dr. Edgar Johnson, instructor of English, College of the City of New York; J. Donald Adams, editor of Book Review, New York Times; Laura C. Boulton, musicologist, of Chicago; Pierre Henricot, former concertmaster, Metropolitan Opera Company; L. Moholy-Nagy, director of the New Bauhaus, Chicago; Dr. Martin Schutze, professor emeritus of German literature, the University of Chicago, and four artists, Joseph Poller, Henry Billings, George Biddle and Carl Eric Linden.

Births in Portugal last September numbered 11,956 as against 8,244 deaths.

An Empty Classroom Becomes a Playroom

School No. 7 is taking great pride in the possession of a new playroom which has been made out of an unused classroom. In this room, which was left vacant by the removal of the students to the Myron J. Michael School, the seats have been removed, windows screened and floor scrubbed.

It is hoped that in time the lights will be screened and basketball baskets put up so that the school team may have an indoor room in which to practice. All play materials have been stored in a cupboard so as to be easily accessible to the play space. The pupils gather and place all play equipment and return it to the cupboard at the close of the playtime.

Although the room is small, the ceiling is high and both teachers and pupils are glad to have an open space in which to play in inclement weather. The room also can be used for volleyball and basketball and the clean floor makes it possible to use it for imitations and rhythms and other imaginative plays by the primary grades.

It has been through the initiative of Principal John J. Finerty that such a room for school use has been provided.

When The Freeman photographer visited the school the 3A class of Miss Sadie Feldman was using the room and is shown above.

Hi-Y Club Holds Series of Games

The Hi-Y of the Y. M. C. A. held one of its periodic social programs last evening instead of the regular meeting. The party was called "Girl-Friend Fun Night."

The Boys' Division was converted into a series of stalls each of which contained a different game. The executive committee composed of the chairman of the various committees of the club was in charge of the party. They were advised by Ed Sylvester, one of the Faculty Advisors of the club. The Executive committee is composed of George Anderson, William Powers, William Darling, Harry Flowers, William Murray and John McCullough.

There was a series of ten competitive games set up. Each couple played each of the games competing against each other; the girls scoring the boys and the boys scoring the girls. Miss Helen Smith scored high for the girls and William Powers scored high for the boys. For grand total, the boys totaled 53 more points than the girls.

Man and Heiress Are Questioned

Mrs. Wood died of "gross lesion of the kidney and acute nephritis (?)".

With the question-mark indicating doubt as to the cause of death, Dr. Squire sent Mrs. Wood's vital organs to Grasslands Hospital for analysis.

An investigation into the death of the mother, Mrs. Mary Wood, 41, was demanded by her father, William J. Enright, retired police sergeant and cousin of former New York City Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

Enright said Dorothy was due to receive $80,000 on her 21st birthday on August 1, and an additional $40,000 at the age of 25 from the estate of her father, Clarence Haaren, a lawyer, who died in 1920. Haaren was Mrs. Wood's first husband.

Enright said he had not seen his daughter since she moved to a cottage at Lake Peekskill, a summer colony, 14 months ago.

Cook Makes Plea For Guam Base

Washington, March 7 (AP)—Rear Admiral Arthur B. Cook urged today the establishment of a seaplane base at Guam to serve as a "listening post" for the navy.

Denying contentions that proposed harbor improvements at the tiny island in the Pacific were linked to any plan for fortification, Cook told the Senate naval committee the navy needed a plane base there to give it advance information of any movements of a possible enemy.

He declared that a $5,000,000 proposal for Guam improvements would not constitute "an effort to move our defense line to a possible untenable and unjustified area too far to the westward."

Juan T. Trippie, youthful president and general manager of Pan American Airways, also urged the committee to vote the Guam item. He said improvement of seaplane landing facilities on the tiny Pacific island was essential to efficient commercial air service to the Orient.

Simultaneously, President Roosevelt authorized the navy to build four new 6,000-ton cruisers, to cost about $12,000,000 each, in private yards.

Officials to Urge Crossings Action

Finally approved and placed in operation it will mean that 500 men will be given work for two years, as it is expected that it will require that length of time before the project is completed.

City Engineer James G. Norton has estimated that the cost of the elimination would be approximately $1,500,000, but railroad officials believe that it will far exceed that amount.

Two Grass Fires

The fire department was called to extinguish two grass fires today. The first was at the old O'Hara coal yard on Foxhall Avenue at 7:51 o'clock, and the other at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon for a grass fire in the rear of 129 Andrew street.

Heads Kingston Court of Honor

At a meeting held in the Boy Scout office on Fair street Monday afternoon the Rev. A. G. Carroll of St. James Church was elected chairman of the court of honor for the Kingston district. The committee made some revisions in the procedure for the court and fixed May 19 as the date for the next court of honor here. It will be held at the court house. The committee also took action to raise the standard for granting awards for life rank and eagle scout, to the extent of providing that before applicants for these ranks appear at the court of honor they shall appear before the committee for a review of their work and standing. May 8 has been set for review of those who plan to appear in the court on May 19.

Monday night the district committee met at the scout office. Chairman George B. Matthews and 20 members of the committee attended the meeting.

Scout executive R. Gardiner Burns announced that a number of new troops are in process of organization in Kingston and throughout the council territory. New troops planned for Kingston are: A troop sponsored by the Polish Church on Delaware Avenue; one sponsored by the Jewish Youth organization, and a Sea Scout Ship, for boys 15 years of age or older, sponsored by the Lions Club.

Other communities planning to organize new troops are: One at Coxsackie, sponsored by the Rotary Club; one at Ashland, sponsored by the Methodist Church; one at St. Mary's Church, Ellenville, under direction of the Rev. Thomas Mullins, assistant pastor; one at Napanoch, sponsored by the Men's Club, with Raymond Crossman, superintendent of shop work at the Napanoch Institution, chairman of the troop committee; one at East Jewett.

Convicts Make Purse for Priest

"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," he urged that the law be amended so as to punish accomplices less harshly.

He also favored the segregation of hardened criminals and a reduction in the size of prisons. Housing 2,000 or more criminals together, he said, was in itself a cause of riots.

Father McCaffrey speaks fluent Italian, Spanish and Gaelic. He was born in New York city and educated at St. Francis Xavier College, Fordham University and St. Joseph's seminary. His successor will be nominated within a few weeks by Bishop Stephen Donahue of New York, subject to official appointment by the state.
